

Azure Passes

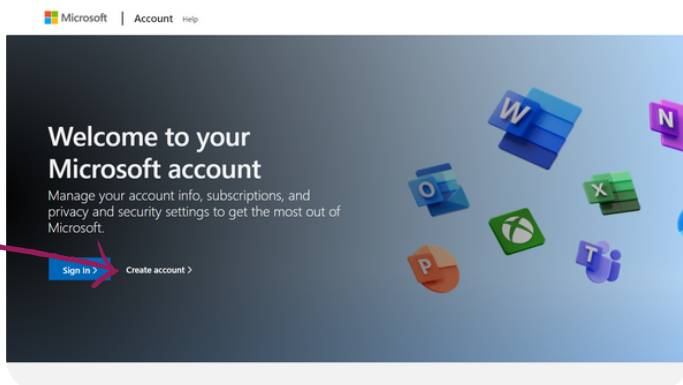

What is an Azure Pass?

Microsoft Azure Pass is a subscription-based offering that gives users access to a range of Microsoft Azure services. With an Azure Pass, users can experiment with and use Azure services for a specified amount of time without incurring any charges. This can be useful for developers who want to try out Azure services and see how they can be used in their applications.

Azure Passes come in different lengths of validity, varying from 15 to 30 days. The amount of credit on an Azure pass can also be different; there are $50 Azure passes and $150 Azure passes.

How to activate an Azure Pass?

To activate your Azure Pass, you will first need to have a Microsoft account. If you don't already have one, you can create one by going to the Microsoft account sign-up page and following the on-screen instructions.

Once you have a Microsoft account, you can activate your Azure Pass by doing the following:

- Go to the Azure Pass page on the Microsoft website.
- Click the "Sign In" button in the top-right corner of the page.
- Sign in to your Microsoft account when prompted.
- Enter the Azure Pass code that you received from Techionista.
- Click the "Submit" button to activate your Azure Pass subscription.

Keep in mind!

- An Azure pass can only be activated using a Microsoft email address and only one pass can be activated per email address.
- To avoid issues when activating your pass, use an incognito window. Ensure the Azure pass page isn't linked to a previous or wrong Outlook account. If so, make sure to log out and use your newly created address before you activate the new Azure pass.
